

Ministry through Projects
Rev. Meg A. Riley

I am the campaign director for SSL. This means that I help to conceptualize the broad strokes of this project, and I participate in its implementation. I work with a crackerjack staff of mostly younger people on this and encourage all kinds of creativity and innovation. I can be seen in a number of videos, blog posts, etc., but mostly I am part of the ground on which it is built.

I am the founding president of this creative, innovative, non-profit. Again, the staff is young and creative. I hold the mission and provide clarity, focus and support. This is a unique mission because it is not about getting FPL's name into the New York Times. The promotion of many voices is similar to what I would want to do with CLF.

This is a book and video project which I did in partnership with Louise Greene and Rob Hardies at All Souls Church, Washington DC. You can see me on the youtube videos (also available as a DVD) walking viewers through the dense conversation about theologies and ministries of justice. I also commissioned the adult curriculum and wrote a chapter for the book of the same title.

This is my area of the UUA work. Please note the multi-voiced blogpost, Inspired Faith, Effective Action.
